A photograph of a concrete wall, possibly a retaining wall or foundation, showing signs of weathering and mold. The wall is composed of several vertical panels separated by expansion joints. The left side of the wall is heavily covered in green mold or algae. The surface is uneven, with some areas appearing lighter and others darker, suggesting water damage or staining. A date stamp '09/03/2020' is visible in orange text at the bottom center of the image.
