

A photograph showing a close-up, low-angle view of a concrete bridge or overpass structure. The concrete surface is weathered, with visible vertical and horizontal joints, stains, and some peeling material. The structure extends from the left towards the right, where it meets a bright, overexposed area. In the background, a road with a guardrail and some vegetation is visible under a clear sky. A date stamp is located in the lower right corner of the image.

09/01/2020