

A photograph showing the underside of a wooden roof. The roof is supported by a network of dark metal beams and rafters. The wooden planks of the roof are visible, showing a natural wood grain. Several metal brackets or fasteners are visible where the beams meet the rafters. The lighting is bright, suggesting daylight. A date stamp is visible in the lower right corner.

09/02/2020