

A photograph showing the underside of a wooden roof. A large, dark, weathered metal beam runs vertically down the center. On either side of this beam, there are horizontal wooden planks. Small metal brackets or fasteners are visible where the wooden planks meet the metal beam. The background shows some greenery and a concrete surface. A date stamp is located in the lower right corner.

09/02/2020