The Green Mountain State
Area: 9,609 Square Miles
1972 Estimated Population 465,000*
Free access to the 4-season charm of Vermont—its natural resources, its historic sites, varied recreation areas, and commanding scenery, statewide—is provided by a network of modern Interstate and State Highways offering unexcelled mountain and valley vistas. These are supplemented by over 10,970 miles of Town Highways, most of which are kept in good traveling condition throughout the year. It is advisable to make advance local inquiry regarding less-traveled roads, especially during the winter and early spring seasons. The approximately 13,600 miles of public highways in Vermont include:
293 miles of Interstate open to travel,
28 miles of Interstate in design or under construction
2,296 miles of State Highways (excluding Interstate), and 10,970 miles of Town Highways.

Some of Vermont's qualities are immediately obvious to many visitors. Long known as the Green Mountain State, its hills have a comfortable, relaxed appearance covered by green foliage in summers and a mantle of white snow in winter months. Its many lakes reflect sparkling, clean waters and provide countless hours of fun and relaxation to residents and visitors.

As one of the smallest and least populous states, yet near to major North American cities, Vermont holds a special charm for many who visit.

Some claim they can actually feel the difference when they enter Vermont, whose visual attractiveness has in part been aided by forward-thinking laws which help preserve this scenic beauty. Here is found a special quality in a friendly land, with friendly people willing to share experiences, provide vacation memories and create a desire to return again.

Fish & Game Information

Tired of heavy competition where you fish? Streamside, you reach into your pocket and find you are in someone else's — is that your problem? Then Vermont's great warmwater and coldwater fishing in beautifully rugged, rural countryside may be your answer. With more than 500 lakes and ponds and some 5,000 miles of flishable streams, it is impossible to overlook a backdrop of lush green mountains. Most of these clear clean waters rush toward Lakes Champlain and Memphremagog or the Connecticut River.

For the warmwater angler — big bass (both largemouth and smallmouth), northern pike often 10 to 15 pounds or up to 30 pounds, walleyes like nowhere else in New England and panfish going to waste. Coldwater species include a renewed landlocked salmon program in many of the large lakes with brook, brown, rainbow trout, and trophy-size lake trout rounding out the salmonids.

The Vermont Fish & Game Department provides a Guide to Fishing brochure free on request by writing to the Montpelier office's I & E Section 05602. A large map in the Guide pegs the species and quality of fishing to be expected in specific areas, answers questions most asked by Vermont fishermen, keys in other services and much more. And for those interested in hunting during the beautiful fall and winter seasons, a detailed companion Guide to Hunting is also available.

License Fees: (All licenses listed below are available from local Town or City Clerk. Non-residents may apply through the mail as well.) License fees go into effect January 1, 1978; calendar year licenses.

State Parks and Forests

Vermont has 34 State Forests and 40 State Parks, totaling 141,000 acres. Recreational facilities in both forests and parks are administered by the Division of Parks. The Division operates 37 campgrounds containing approximately 2,200 individual campsites and 16 major state beaches with public bathhouses. Approximately 4,000 acres in the State Forests are devoted primarily to skiing and leased to private operators. Some of these ski areas, located at least in part on state forest land, are Stowe, Killington, Burke and Jay Peak. All forests and parks, except game refuges and where close to human concentrations, are open to hunting after October 15th. Many of the forests and parks have hiking and snowmobile trails.

Camping

All campgrounds have a resident manager, drinking water and flush toilets. An individual campsite includes a level tent space, fireplace and table. Most sites will accommodate a travel trailer, but there are no special hookups for utilities in any of the campgrounds. However, most campgrounds have a sanitary station for use by self-contained camper vehicles. Some of the campgrounds have Green Mountain lean-tos, which are roofed shelters closed on three sides and fully open on the fourth. They have a 10' x 13' wooden floor about 15 inches above the ground and will accommodate up to five persons. For information regarding camping in Vermont State Parks and Forests, write: Agency of Environmental Conservation, Department of Forests and Parks, Division of Parks, Montpelier, Vermont 05602, or the individual areas listed at right from May 1 to October 15.

Beverage Container Deposit Law

In 1973, Vermont enacted legislation against throwaway beer and soda containers. The law mandates a minimum 5-cent deposit on every beer and soda can or bottle sold in the state. There's a deposit on ALL containers whether or not it is so printed on them. This legislation has been overwhelmingly successful and roadside litter has been dramatically reduced. Visitors are reminded: you are entitled this refund upon redemption of your beverage container. Thank you for your cooperation.

Green Mountain National Forest

Vermont also has 262,000 acres managed by the U.S. Forest Service and traversed by 130 miles of the Appalachian and Long Trails. The Lye Brook and Bristol Cliffs Wilderneses contain 18,000 acres of primitive solitude. Use of off-road recreational vehicles is regulated. Ranger stations are located in Manchester Center, Middlebury and Rochester. For additional information, write to Forest Supervisor, Green Mountain National Forest, Federal Bldg., 151 West St., Rutland, VT 05701

Vermont Life Magazine

Vermont Life is published quarterly, with the seasons, by the State of Vermont. Each issue contains 64 pages of good reading with factual and informational articles on the unique character and charm of life in Vermont, past, present and an occasional look to the future. It is illustrated with numerous exceptional photographs, many in full color, showing Vermont's beauty in each changing season. For a one year subscription and a catalog of our special products, send $4.00 ($1 extra for foreign delivery) to: Vermont Life Magazine, Dept. VM 8, Montpelier, Vermont 05602.
